

Thrillingly Sterile.

Imagine your grade A/B areas working to full capacity—for revenue, not for disinfectants.

Are you sitting comfortably, possibly with a pen and a piece of paper? Let's see how many costs you can think of that are associated with the in-house production of Gold Standard disinfectants. It's a sobering list! Having worked your way through manufacturing and logistics, documentation and validation, auditing, control, defective batches, and lower saleable product output, you may well have run out of space. Wouldn't you rather put your time, people, and equipment to more profitable use?

Spiriclens Sterile Spray is manufactured under GMP in pharmaceutical cleanrooms, exactly like your products. It's double- or triple-bagged, and fully documented. And delivered to your door. Isn't that worth a thought?

Relentlessly Sterile.

Imagine expanding your grade A/B areas' capacity and your own quality time in one move.

Did you ever try and count all the things that keep you from leaving work at a decent hour? Chances are, the demands of producing Gold Standard disinfectants in-house are among them. From manufacturing to documentation to validation to audits, it's a process as radically non-profitable as it is time-consuming. Wouldn't you rather see your staff and equipment making products, generating revenue? And wouldn't it be great to leave work a few hours earlier for your favorite pastimes and all the things you'd rather be doing?

Blissfully Sterile.

Imagine all the documentation for your A/B area disinfectants available at the click of a mouse.

Sit back and think about it—how many exams did you have to pass to get to where you are today? Countless, probably. Now, honestly: Couldn't you do without the exam-like audit preparations and documentation hassle you get from producing Gold Standard disinfectants in-house? With maximum responsibilities and staggering costs at stake for each defective batch, or—heaven forbid—a critical remark? Wouldn't you rather be whistling a merry tune as you simply download all that vital documentation, freeing you to take on more profitable challenges?
